Accident scene

Three people died in a collision between a school bus and car Saturday on highway 35 in Carnarvon. Fifteen people on the bus, members and parents of Pee Wee hockey club returning from a tournament in Huntsville, were injured. All three occupants of the car died instantly. Police and members of the Stanhope fire department spent more than five hours at the scene, before the highway could be re opened. Only one person remains in hospital with back injuries in the aftermath of the crash, one of the worst ever in the county.

Three people killed, 15 hurt in violent collision between car, school bus

Three people were killed and 15 others injured, one seriously, when a car collided with a school bus on highway 35 in Carnarvon early Saturday evening.

Dead are Timothy Alexander Higgins, 17, of 120 Poplar Road, West Hill, driver of the car; Edward James Fredenburg, 19, of 93 Galloway Road, West Hill front seat passenger in the car; and Steve Reith, 18, of West Hill, rear seat passenger.

The 72 passenger bus owned by Trentways of Port Hope carried 15 adults and 15 children, members of a Port Hope Pee Wee hockey club and their parents returning from a tournament in Huntsville.

The car, a 1974 Dodge Dart was northbound and travelling at high speed when it skidded into the path of the southbound bus about 45 metres north of the junction of Highway 530, on a long, sweeping curve.

The engine and front wheels of the car slammed into the left front corner of the bus and were torn off by the impact, coming to rest against the rear. Passenger compartment and rear end of the car, containing the bodies of the dead youths, came to rest in the southbound lane near the rear of the bus.

Only witness to the accident was Gord Everall, owner of Carnarvon Lanes.

"I was standing out on the front porch and saw the car go by and hit the bus," he says.

Everall says he heard the car coming before he saw it, and estimates that it was travelling at between 80 and 85 miles an hour at the time of the impact.

"I ran over because when the car hit, there was a puff of smoke," he said in an interview Tuesday.

A fire broke out in the engine compartment of the bus, but one of the passengers grabbed a fire extinguisher and trained it on the flames.

Everall says he ran back to his house to get a second extinguisher, and asked his wife to call police and an ambulance. By the time he returned the fire was out, and most of the passengers had left the bus and were milling around, some holding cloth to their foreheads nursing cuts and bruises.

Police and firemen praised the bus driver, 29-year-old Diane Martin, of RR 1, Lindsay, Ontario, both for her driving skills and for keeping the passengers calm.

"Nobody panicked," Everall says. "They got them right off the bus. I think I was more uncalm than anybody."

Three ambulances attended the scene and transported the more seriously injured passengers to Minden and Haliburton hospitals for treatment.

Stanhope firemen were called at 6:50, and were on the scene within minutes.

"We took a look at the car and saw that there wasn't much we could do," according to chief Richard Kinsman.

Crowbars, a metal cutting saw and a tow truck winch were used to cut off the roof and one door and to pry apart the wreckage enough for firemen to free the bodies, Kinsman said.

Coroner Dr. H. E. Good of Haliburton pronounced the youths dead at the scene.

Several of the bus passengers were taken to the nearby home of Velda Harrison to await transportation to hospital.

Stanhope fireman, Jim Foster, who drives a Northern Ways school bus, used it to transport uninjured passengers to Minden, where they were met by a bus from Port Hope for the journey home.

All but two of the 15 injured passengers were treated and released.

Most seriously injured was Carol Hutchinson, 38, wife of the team's coach. She was reportedly standing in the aisle when the accident occurred, and was thrown against the bus's front window and dashboard.

Youth facing charge of first degree murder

An 18 year old Haliburton youth appeared briefly in Lindsay provincial court, Monday to face a charge of first degree murder.

Christopher Charles Roberts was charged following the shooting death early Sunday morning of his step father, Grant Raymond Roberts, 46.

The shooting occurred at Grant Roberts' home in Haliburton village. Chris Roberts was arrested at the scene.

The two had not lived together for a number of years, according to friends of the youth.

Police would release no further details about the incident, and the court was reported to be considering a ban on publication of details Tuesday morning.

Businessman offers $4000 to start Junior D club in Minden

An unnamed Haliburton businessman has offered to put up $4,000 to partially sponsor a Junior D hockey club in Minden.

Ross Warburton, president of Minden Minor Hockey, made the announcement last week at a public meeting called to see if there was sufficient interest in the community to get a Junior team off the ground.

"There are enough kids in Minden Minor Hockey and to the south of us that you could put a competitive team in," Warburton told a very small turnout at the Municipal building Wednesday night.

"The thing that concerns me is the fact that in the minor hockey system you have a lot of players who think they're capable of playing minor hockey," Warburton said, and if there isn't a team, "a good many of them go away."

This year, two Minden players travelled to Beaver to play Junior C and "Minden Minor Hockey got nothing out of that," Warburton said.

Warburton told the meeting the main reason for starting up a team in the village would be to generate fan interest in minor hockey, something which has been declining in Minden in recent years.

Unless the Midgets "start drawing" or a Junior team brings in gate receipts, "I would say that minor hockey is in big trouble," Warburton said.

A Junior team might bring in fans, create a renewed interest in hockey, and bring more people into the arena, which in turn would "pay the bills," Warburton said. "Right now, you're not paying the bills."

He estimated that a team could be equipped for $2,000, and said it would have to have sponsorship from area businesses.

Biggest single expense in operating a Junior D team is transportation. Haliburton's Huskies are sponsored by Northern Ways Transit, who supply a bus for every away game, and a Minden team would have to find equal sponsorship if it were to survive.

Second major hurdle in icing a team is finding enough players, but Warburton was confident last Wednesday that enough players could be found.

If a Junior D team were started, the Minden juveniles, who this year had ten David Longford, who spearheaded the initial drive to save the Kinmount station, was elected first vice president of the newly formed Historical Society at a meeting in the village last Thursday.

Historical society formed in bid to save Kinmount station

Citizens of the Kinmount area formed an historical society last Thursday night as the first step toward preserving the village's century old railway station.

Formation of the society came at a public meeting called by David Longford, president of the Kinmount Horticultural Society, and the driving force behind initial efforts to save the station.

More than 30 area ratepayers and the five-man Somerville Township council were on hand for the meeting, which was called to determine if there was sufficient public interest in acquiring and restoring the building.

In October, a petition had been circulated in the village and surrounding area, and was presented to Somerville council. The petition had outlined the general concern of citizens with regard to the future of the station, according to Longford. In accepting the petition, council assured the 38 people who signed it that no action would be taken to sell or remove the building until possible uses for it had been explored.

February 7, a general project proposal was presented to council outlining an intended restoration of the building that would include a pioneer museum.

Longford told the meeting last Thursday that he had invited council in order to find out their views on the proposal.

Reeve Maurice Watson told the meeting that council had not "formed a full opinion on this (proposal)". "We had the feeling that should there not be enough people interested, there was no point in going ahead."

"We have to realize that there's a lot more to Somerville Township than the Village of Kinmount," the reeve said.

"We, as a council, have not set any particular policy (with respect to historical preservation), or decided what steps we're going to take," he admitted.

"I think we would be premature in forming an opinion," he said, but insisted in reply to a question from a ratepayer that "we have an open mind."

First step in the preservation process would be for council to obtain the building from Canadian National Railways, Longford said.

He emphasized that CN's application to close the rail line between Lindsay and Haliburton would have no bearing on obtaining the station, which has stood unused for a number of years.

"Even if a train continues to go through the village, it

Sommerville reeve Maurice Watson told about 30 ratepayers in Kinmount Thursday that council was willing to acquire the old CN station if the community was interested in restoring the building.

Business Improvement area may be formed in Minden

The Village of Minden could have a Business Improvement Area (BIA) within the next few months, if the Minden Businessmen's Association is successful in its efforts to get such an area formed.

At a meeting of the group last Wednesday night, about 30 Minden business people heard Anatole Savac of the Ministry of Housing discuss the steps involved in forming a Business Improvement Area.

Under the program, business people agree to a levy on their taxes which is used for improvements within the designated area. A two-thirds majority is needed before a BIA can be set up, and by-laws must be passed by the Municipality to make the area legal.

Stu Brandon, former vice president of the association, said in an interview Monday that the association has discussed improving the sidewalks in the village, among other things.

Under a business improvement area program, money collected from all the business people would be used to install decorative sidewalks, seating along the main street, and for other improvements to make the village more attractive, Brandon said.

He termed the BIA program a means of putting business people of the village on the offense to attract shoppers back from the malls of Lindsay and Peterborough. "Our feeling is that if we can make the town attractive, then it's for the good of everybody," he said.

The association will send letters to all village business people, informing them of the program, Brandon said.

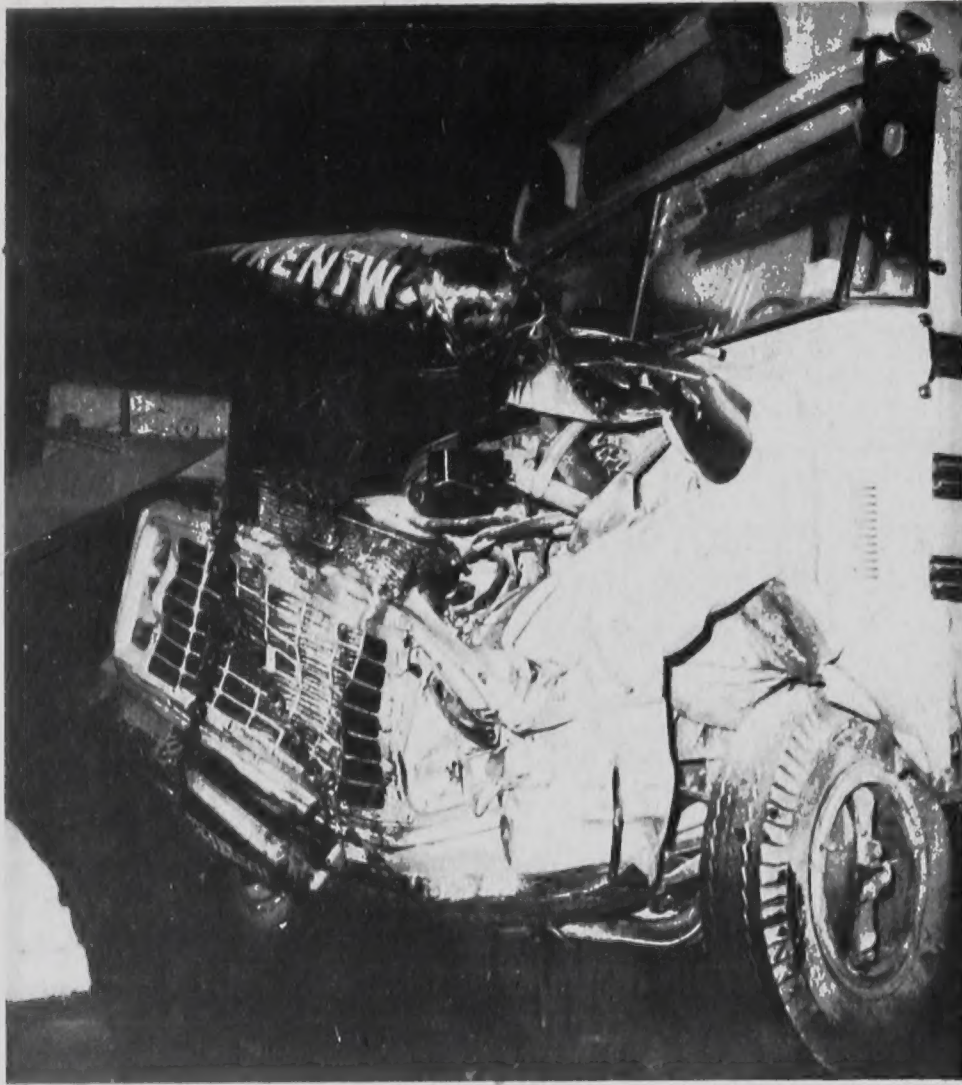

If two-thirds of the business people agree to the concept, the municipality would pass a by-law to set up a BIA and levy the funds required, allowing 60 days for objections. Final step is a review by the Ontario Municipal Board before the BIA is official.

"It's a fairly lengthy process," Brandon said. "What we're interested in is getting things moving."

"Even if everything goes as planned, we're probably talking about five months," before the BIA would be designated, he said.

In other business at the meeting, the association elected an executive almost identical to last year's, con-

A fire started in the engine compartment of this Trentways bus after it was struck by a car near Carnarvon Saturday night. It was quickly extinguished, however, as 15 injured passengers were taken to hospital in Minden and Haliburton for treatment.

Outside seniors may get apartments

Senior citizens from Galway and Cavendish townships will be allowed into the senior citizens apartments in Minden so long as applications from Stanhope, Snowdon and Lutterworth are accepted first.

The decision came at council's regular meeting last Wednesday, and was made in response to a letter from Galway-Cavendish council.

The apartments, on the Bobcaygeon Road, are nearing completion.

In other matters, council decided it concurs with the entrance proposed by M.T.C. to Hwy. #35 from the junction of unopened Newcastle St. and Teasdale St. allowances on the east side of Hwy. #35 to service Mabel Hewitt's property. The allowances are still under the control of the township and have not been disposed of.

Council confirmed that the conditions have been met on lots 33 to 36 inclusive on draft plan of subdivision no. 46T-75496 and the Ministry of Housing will be so notified.

A letter was received from the O.M.B. regarding a tentative hearing of twp. by-law 77-23. Council directed the clerk to advise that this file should be closed.

It was resolved that council concurs in principle with a proposed plan of subdivision in part of lot 13, conc. 11, Township of Minden subject to the township receiving ownership to 33 feet of property for roads purposes on the western extremity of the property.

I. James, S. McElroy and Paul Lindquist from the Regional Assessment Office were present to explain in detail how Section 86 of the Assessment Act would affect the various property classifications within the municipality. The conversion of certain types of properties from commercial to residential was also discussed.

Members of council also decided to support the proposed regulations to control pits and quarries which have been abandoned and to advise the Minister of Natural Resources to introduce provisions that all such pits be graded or filled in by the owner or operator when it constitutes a danger to the public.

A letter received from D. Willis requested council's approval to connect to the storm sewer on Main Street. He also requested permission to relocate the existing snack bar and remodel it for the purpose of storing garbage. The clerk was directed to prepare an appropriate agreement.

It was resolved that council request the Minister of Revenue to prepare a study to show the impact of the equalization of assessment pursuant to Section 86 of the Assessment Act.

The Clerk was directed to apply for one student for 20 weeks under the 1979 grant relative to the business administration program.

P.W.D. accounts for the month of February were approved for payment in the amount of $18,740.24.

#79-60 - Lyle McKnight - D. Pritchard: That the following accounts were also approved, General - $25,686.15, Water - $35,828.82, and Sewer - $487.53.

Bob Cowan, Don Hall and Mrs. J. Davis attended council to review the municipality's 1979 insurance policies.

Council agreed to tender with the Provisional County of Haliburton for the following products in 1979: 3 miles of priming, 80,000 gal. of non asphaltic road oil provided such such oil contains no

The clerk was directed to advertise for one person with clerical experience and applications to be considered at the next regular meeting.

By-law 79-14, a by-law to amend By-law 73-47 being a by-law to regulate traffic and parking in the Townships of Anson, Hinton and Minden, was passed.

By-law 79-15, a by-law to regulate and license the owners and drivers of Motor Vehicles used for taxis, was also passed.

Road oil ordered despite plea of anti-pollution committee

Despite attempts by the Haliburton County anti-pollution committee to convince Anson, Hinton and Minden council to end the practice of applying road oil for dust control, the municipality will once again use oil on the roads this year.

At a meeting last Wednesday, council decided to tender for its road oil and calcium chloride requirements in conjunction with the county roads department, a practice followed in past years.

Councillor Stu Brandon told council he felt the amount of money spent for dust control in the township should be cut in half.

"I really think it's a frill," he said.

Roads superintendent Earl Kent disagreed. He said that unless some form of dust control was used, many roads in the township would simply blow away in time.

Last year, in addition to road oil, 56 tons of bagged calcium chloride and 63.5 tons of liquid calcium chloride were applied to roads in the municipality. That amounts to more than a ton a mile, Brandon said.

Deputy reeve Doug Pritchard felt cutting the amount use in half would mean some roads would have to be left without any dust control application.

"If you're going to cut in half, which roads don't you put anything on," he asked.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said he wasn't against cutting down on dust control, but added, "I just think there's no way you can get away from it."

In the end, council decided to call for tenders for both road oil and calcium chloride.

The complete road budget for 1979 is expected to be finalized at a meeting later this month.

Gun club wants to lease gravel pit

The newly formed Haliburton County Gun Club wants to use the Minden Curling Club as an indoor range in the summer months.

The request was made by William Payne, club treasurer, at a meeting of council last Wednesday.

Payne told council that a removable backdrop could be set up in the building to stop small arms bullets.

Some 40 people turned up for the club's first meeting recently, and Payne told council that the group is expecting 80 people at its next meeting in April.

"It's blowing up bigger than we thought," he said.

The club is also requesting the use of a gravel pit in the township.

"If council would see fit to give us a lease on part of a pit, we would fence it and supervise it," Payne said.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt indicated that the municipality would probably agree to enter into a lease agreement with the club in the near future, and asked that the group keep council informed of its activities.

A constitution for the new club is expected to be drafted within the next few weeks.

players, would be disbanded, Warburton said.

One hockey player, in a small town, lots of times will make the difference between winning and losing," he said. "If you've got four players who can put the puck in the net, you can go all the way to the Ontario championship."

Warburton said a proposal would have to be made to the OHA annual meeting in April, and that Bancroft had already indicated it would not oppose a Minden entry in the league.

The Huskies, however, are unlikely to support such a move, and as of last Wednesday's meeting, had not been contacted by Warburton to discuss the proposal, according to Huskies manager Don Lloyd.

"Nobody's ever talked to us," he said. "Why wouldn't they sit down with us."

Junior D teams have a drawing radius of 25 miles, and cannot import players. The Huskies now draw all the eligible players who want to play Junior hockey, according to Lloyd.

"We have 15 or 16 players that we can rely on. We're competitive, but we're not a powerhouse," he said.

"Usually, if we sign 18 players, we're lucky?"

This year the Huskies signed 24 players, but only 15 are still playing.

"No team has an excess of players," the Huskies manager said, and "one good player is not going to make a hockey team."

Madoc folded in mid-season this year because of a lack of players, and Bobcay-geon was rumoured to be considering withdrawing from the league as the number of eligible and interested players falls. Little Britain and Woodville have also had and lost teams in recent years.

Out of this year's Midget team the Huskies may get two players, according to Lloyd, but six of the present Huskies will be ineligible next year.

"We've got no hockey players coming up who are real powerhouses." As early as next year, he predicts, "we'll have a problem," and he says that for the next five years, there is little chance the Huskies can ice a really good team.

"If no kids from Minden came up, we'd have trouble getting enough players."

"I would think that if they got a junior team, we'd have to fold," Lloyd said.

Even with NorthernWays sponsorship, it costs between $10,000 and $15,000 to operate the Huskies for a single season, Lloyd said, and gate receipts don't cover the expenses.

"The only way you could make money is if you went to the playoffs."

"We're probably between $2,000 and $3,000 in the hole right now," he admitted, "and we've had a pretty good year, a lot better than the last couple of years."

A meeting is expected to be called in the next few weeks to see how many players would be interested in playing on a Junior D team in Minden.

Firefighters no longer control hall

CKVR's goal tender found it hard to stay in the net in an exhibition game against Wilberforce Saturday. He even tried his hand at an end to end rush, but didn't manage to connect for the score. More than 100 spectators turned out to watch the action.

Was it hockey?

The lights at the Wilberforce arena have shone down on a great deal of hockey since the building opened last March but never have they illuminated so strange a game as was witnessed by more than 100 fans Saturday night.

The players wore skates, and they chased after a puck some of the time but there were added attractions as well, like a goalie who gave birth to a baby at centre ice, a two minute football game on ice, as well as players who appeared in Hallowe'en masks and a referee who took a pie in the face for breaking up a scrap.

The antics were zany indeed, but they were all part of the fun as the CKVR No Stars took on the Wilberforce Oldtimers in a game that proved entertaining for young and old alike.

The scoreboard spotted the Wilberforce team 90 goals, and with a margin like that the home team couldn't lose, but the No Stars did outplay their opponents whenever the teams got down to the game.

Three minutes into the first period, the No Stars got their first goal of the contest, and for the next few minutes they dominated the game. Despite some fancy passing, the Oldtimers had trouble finding their legs, and the shots they did muster were handled easily by the No Stars netminder.

By the halfway mark, the CKVR goalie was playing up at the blue line, apparently trying to get a little closer to the action, which stayed largely in the Wilberforce end.

At 11:18, accurate passing by the No Stars again led to a score.

in on the powerplay, guarding centre ice and occasionally straying as far as his opponents' blue line. A minute or two later however, the tactic backfired, as a Wilberforce shot found the net before he could get back into position.

In the opening minutes of the second period the action was fast as both teams headed end to end, and there was very little backchecking. There were a number of close calls around the CKVR net, but the puck stayed out.

About a quarter of the way through the period, an apparently injured CKVR goalie was dragged to centre ice where the rapid delivery of a nine pound baby girl proved to be the best show of teamwork yet by the No Stars.

Soon after, with the action more or less back to normal, the home team again got on Thirteen minutes into the period, a breakaway by the Oldtimers led to nothing more than a bruised goalpost at first, but the rebound bounced back out in front and was banged in for the score.

Sensing the Oldtimers needed some help to get back in the game, the CKVR goalie, in a notable display of sportsmanship, suggested a switch with Wilberforce, who agreed to the change. The move backfired however, as the No Stars' netminder promptly put the puck into his own crease to make the score 3-1 for the visitors.

appeared to have aged a bit as they took to the ice for the second period sporting a wild collection of costumes, but their hockey skills were as sharp as ever, and they put one past the home team soon after the puck was dropped.

Then, with the CKVR goalie once more in the thick of the action, a shot from the Wilberforce blue line drifted fending the net, but to no avail, as Wilberforce put another one in.

A stick thrown to block a No Stars shot gave CKVR a penalty shot, and once more it was the goalie who took the puck. He chose to shoot rather than attempt the deke, and the shot was well wide of the net.

Final score was 98 - 61 down the ice and into the empty net.

To make up for the mistake, the No Stars' netminder decided to go it alone, taking the face-off at centre ice and struggling to manoeuvre in for the score. The rest of his team concentrated on de-

Damage to the 1977 pickup truck McIntosh was driving was estimated at $300.

Damage to the 1975 car Bain was driving was estimated at $150.

McIntosh was charged with making a turn not in safety.

CKVR scored the only touchdown

the board with a shot that stayed low and slid past the still recovering goalie.

CKVR stretched their lead a few plays later, and added another one on top for insurance.

It wasn't long, however, before the No Stars' defense took a rest and Wilberforce put one in.

The proliferation of goals continued in the period, as CKVR once more teamed up to put one past the Wilberforce defenders.

Then a scrap broke out between two CKVR players,

With Wilberforce short-handed, the CKVR goalie got and when the referee intervened, he promptly got a pie in the face for his troubles, and the offenders were sent to the box.

Close checking play developed for a while, but with the teams back at full strength, a football appeared on the ice, and the experienced CKVR team quickly netted a "touchdown". A convert attempt was wide and short just as the buzzer sounded to end the period.

the senior citizens club in Haliburton.

According to Mrs. McCann, many seniors do not file an income tax return, and are unaware that they may be eligible for a tax rebate.

Seniors wishing to attend the clinic should bring medical, property tax or rental receipts as well as T4 or T5 forms, and receipts from charitable and political party donations.

More volunteers are needed to make the project a success, according to Mrs. McCann. Those wishing to help or needing help can call 489-2899 or 754-2752 for further information on the clinics.

Worth saving

Last Thursday, at a public meeting in Kinmount, an historical society was formed for the express purpose of working to save the village's railway station. And though the group is sure to encounter a host of headaches and frustrations before it succeeds in its aim, the formation of a committee to save the station is a hopeful sign.

Too often, in the rush for something newer, larger, more economical or superficially functional, the historical architecture of Canada is disappearing beneath the wrecker's hammer. In place of fine Neo classical or Georgian buildings, we find ascetic structures of steel and glass. In place of unified streetscapes of brick and stone we find plastic fronted stores and a riot of garish neon. Late nineteenth century farmhouses with gables and kingposts, finials and gingerbread, stand empty, rotting in the sun and rain, or collapse under the pressure of postage stamp lot suburban development. It's a sad situation that can only be arrested by the dedicated effort of ordinary citizens with a genuine concern for the past.

Buildings can tell us much about ourselves, and about the past of which we are, in a very real sense, the sum.

Old buildings speak of days when craftsmanship still mattered and of times when the bleakness of landscape and life were relieved by the beauty of the carpenter or stonemason's art.

To the nineteenth century mind, a building had to please the eye as well as perform a function. Finishing touches like fine wood work and decorative brick were not mere embellishment then. They were, rather at the core of architecture, the final touches that made the architect an artist and the building an object of lasting value.

In this part of the province, at least partially because of the harshness of the landscape and the lateness of settlement, there are few buildings of lasting architectural merit. But the Kinmount station is one.

Saving it for the future won't be easy, but the effort expended now will surely pay off later, when the rail lines are gone and the history that went with them has faded from living memory.

The project deserves the support of the community, and of the municipalities which border it.

No different

The possibility that Minden will seek to form a Junior D hockey club next season, while innocuous enough on the surface, nevertheless underscore a fundamental problem in Haliburton County that most people have long recognized, but that few people have been willing to overcome.

If there were money and players enough to form a team (which seems unlikely) and if Minden and Haliburton could co-operate in its formation, there could be few objections. But an effort to form the team motivated less by a genuine concern for the players and the state of the game than by a desire to reinforce the psychological gulf that exists between the two communities, could only be harmful.

There are of course, open minded residents of each village who know that people living 15 miles apart do not differ fundamentally either in needs or aims.

But there are others in each community who refuse to co-operate, who would seek to foster and feed an animosity that can only hold the county back.

The time has come for people to put aside their imagined differences and face the facts, before those facts are forced upon them by outside social and political influences.

Haliburton County will only progress, and it will only get its share of development and help, if it presents a united front to larger governments and agencies. For the truth is that what's good for one community is good for another. Quality of life and the growth of opportunity are not limited by village or township boundaries.

People and groups who work for the good of the county as a whole should be supported, and those whose influence and purpose is divisive should be censured.

For the good of everyone, let's put an end to pettiness and bickering. Let's sit down together and discuss ideas and aims in a rational way. That is the only way that worthwhile projects will ever be accomplished.

Spring is here! John Joy of Willowdale paints Amaleen Lake

As others see it

Evidence piles up on the federal political scene; once again suggesting that the issue or a writ for a general election may be imminent. We have gone through all this before.

Less than a year ago an election seemed almost upon us, and everywhere candidates were being nominated. Then the Trudeau government, warned by private polls of voters across the country, drew sharply back and said there would be no election. Instead, 15 by-elections were called, and the government fared very badly, excepting in Quebec, losing to the Progressive Conservatives in most of these local constituency contests, and to the N.D.P. in one riding.

It appears that, regardless of the crisis in economic affairs of which the greatly decreased value of the Canadian dollar both at home and on international money markets is one indication, Mr. Trudeau has some thought that he and his cabinet will be able to get some kind of support, more than last fall or last spring, and be able to hand on as a government.

To accomplish this, it is observed now that one tactic will be to try in every possible way to discredit the Progressive Conservative opposition and its leader, Joe Clark. Mr. Clark has shown a marked ability in party organization and in his understanding of the Canadian government situation and has the advantage of a more youthful approach.

One must doubt that the record, which shows an unfortunate decline in Canada's economic well-being and a deep division within the country itself based on the worsened Quebec situation, can commend Mr. Trudeau as a leader who has been successful. Canada can well become more united and go on to a greater future and prosperity, if there is, as soon as an election makes it possible, a true change in the leadership of the nation.

Just how much does the public have a right to know? What are the differences between an accurate presentation of the facts and a story that sensationalizes issues? Can a newspaper story be truly objective? And to what extent should information be suppressed out of a concern for the feelings of individuals directly involved in the circumstances of an event, whether tragic, humorous or damning?

These are questions that everyone who writes for a newspaper must face at one time or another. They simply cannot be ignored.

In a larger paper, most decisions of what a story should contain, how it should be presented, how it should treat both sides, and how much information should be held back or laid bare, would be made by a gathering of editors whose collective experience would total scores of years. But in a small paper like the Echo, where one person gathers and writes most of the news and sports, and all of the editorials, the decisions must be made and their consequences accepted by one or at most two people.

It's a situation that carries with it a particular code of pressure that renders vital, a thought out code of personal ethics.

In a large newspaper, where the reader is an impersonal being numbered in the tens and hundreds of thousands by circulation departments and advertisers alike, decisions about how a story might affect an individual carry little weight. But for a paper like the Echo, those decisions are of vital importance. And they require time and energy that make working for a weekly newspaper a constant challenge.

This week, in a situation that is fortunately rare, we were faced with writing a story about a homicide that took place in the Village of Haliburton, Sunday.

The bare facts were simple enough to acquire. A man died of a gunshot wound and an individual was charged in connection with the death.

The location and approximate time of the occurrence were duly provided by the police. But no further information was released.

A score of questions could be asked based on the sketchy information police were willing to provide, and we felt we had an obligation to ask those questions.

As always, when events of significance take place and the facts have not been completely revealed, rumours flew up and down the streets of the village and no doubt spread over much of the county. Were those rumours damning at worst or at least inaccurate? And could we set the record straight?

Phone calls and conversations, some of them off the record, filled out much of the story for us. But what could we use without compromising sources and risking legal complications?

In the end, after much thought and not a little anxiety, we decided to go only with what the police were willing to provide, knowing that readers would want, and perhaps deserved more, but aware that providing background and revealing facts presented to us in confidence, would jeopardize our chances of obtaining such information in the future.

So the story you read on the front page of this week's paper is perhaps less than you deserve, and perhaps less than you already know.

It is all, however, that we could in good conscience, and within legal boundaries, provide. We made a choice, and as always, we must live with it.

Feir Play

Many people from other centres in Ontario move into Haliburton County to take up residence here. Many who are financially well off come here to retire. The people that we really feel sorry for are those who move in possibly from the big city in anticipation of getting away from the rat race. When they arrive here they have great hopes of making a living in our fair county, but after they have been here a year or so they realize that their dreams of a great future here are not exactly what they had expected. Many find to their dismay that there is just not the work here to keep them employed all year round. These same people unfortunately are forced to move back again to the city to get work. It all boils down to the old story that we must always be on the lookout for small industry that would like to locate here. Let's face it, people who were born and raised here in many cases must leave their own particular community to seek employment elsewhere.

There is one word that sticks out in our mind this week and that word is involvement. Many of us never seem to get involved in anything and it is the old story of the same people doing all the work. It is my opinion that all of us should be involved in one thing at least. There are many things that come to mind that we can get involved with and here are just a few. Service clubs, minor hockey, school of fine arts, Boy Scouts, Cubs, Brownies, Guides, Beavers, church work, helping out our neighbour when he or she has a problem and I could go on and on. If we all got involved in something it would certainly make the workload a little easier on those who seem to take an active part in so many things in the community. By getting involved you will find a great satisfaction that will give you a different outlook on life.

I think that the time has come for the N.H.L. and the W.H.A. to get together and become one league. A merger of the two leagues would mean that we could add at least three more Canadian cities namely, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Quebec City. There is no doubt in my mind that if this ever comes about that these three teams in particular would be good solid clubs that could fill the rinks to capacity and would make good franchises. At the present time, there are only three Canadian teams out of seventeen that make up the N.H.L. Another three would give us six and as we produce most of the hockey talent in the N.H.L. we are certainly deserving of more teams in the league. I would also like to see the City of Hamilton in the big time and they should certainly be in the position to ice a profitable franchise.

The March break is now in the progress and many people from Haliburton County are either on vacation in other parts of Ontario or are basking in the sun in the sunny south.

From time to time the subject of the violent and sex movies shown in theatres across Canada comes up for criticism and rightly so. One has to wonder if any of these motion pictures are ever censored. This problem is not only in the movie houses, all one has to do is watch television any night of the week and the biggest percentage of programs shown on the tube are nothing but a bunch of junk. The CBC television network at times seems to hit rock bottom with some of the programs they dish us up with some of these washed up actors who seem to be unemployed and they hire them to give them a job in some of these crazy, far-out plays. It's just about time that the CBC started to clean up their act and give us some half decent programs since we as taxpayers have to subsidize it each and every year. The CBC can't even bring us a mid-week N.H.L. hockey game because they are preoccupied with these crazy, sex, soap opera and violent type shows. In this day and age we need something to laugh about and we certainly don't need anything else that's going to depress us. What has ever happened to all the good clean family type comedy shows? And what about putting on some good middle of the road musical programs for a change?

The Rotary Clubs of Minden and Haliburton will be on their way to Fenelon Falls on Thursday, March 29 to attend a tri-club meeting to be held there.

Some of the side roads in the county have really heaved up and potholes abound wherever you look. Some of the motorists tell me that some roads are in worse conditions than others. It's really hard on a vehicle.

Every week day morning on CFTR radio from Toronto they have a five-minute time slot when a fellow by the name of Jacques gives his opinion on what's happening in the sports world. If you have never caught him on the radio, it's well worth your while as he gives a very humorous slant on the sports scene. You can catch him at about five minutes to nine each morning. As a classic example of some of his humour, one day last week he was saying that the Leafs had acquired Paul Gardner from the Colorado Rockies in a trade. Now he says that the Leafs have a Butler and a Gardner. I hope that you get the joke in this one. Yes, if you want a real good laugh in the morning, why not tune him in. This chap really sees the funny side of everything and who can't use a good laugh in the morning.

The third annual Minden Rotary Skate-a-thon will take place at the Minden arena on Friday, March 30 and Saturday, March 31. The skate-a-thon provides a unique fund-raising opportunity for all clubs, organizations and charities throughout the county. The program is administered entirely through the Minden Rotary Club. Pledge money raised by the skaters is shared equally by the Rotary Club and the organizations named on the skaters' pledge sheets. All monies raised by the Minden Rotary Club in this skate-a-thon will go towards community projects.

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott MP

Conservative Leader Joe Clark's proposal to allow tax deductibility for home mortgage interest and property taxes continues to generate favourable reaction all across the country.

The Troy proposal is essentially a 'gathering together' of a number of economic measures that the Conservative party has been trying over the years to force the federal government to adopt, in order to get the national economy moving again.

Failure of the Trudeau government to give serious attention to the Conservative proposals has prompted party leader Clark to make his proposals a major issue in the upcoming federal general election campaign.

The mortgage interest deductibility policy would allow tax deductions on interest paid on mortgages on homes located anywhere in Canada. The tax-break applies only to first mortgages, and it must be on a home that qualifies as the principal residence of the person applying for the tax credit.

A maximum of $5,000 in interest payments in any one year will be imposed, which in most cases will allow deductibility of the full interest payments on a mortgage of up to $50,000.

Municipal property taxes of up to $1,000 will be made deductible on a home if it is the principal residence, and is located in Canada. For example, in a family of four, with two children and one working spouse, a $30,000 mortgage and annual taxes of $500, the saving in taxes in the first year would be $197, and when the program is fully in place it would rise to as high as $756 per year.

Clark said that the program has worked in the United States, and it is time we had a similar program for Canadian home owners.

The Conservative policy would be based on a sliding scale to enable the program to be phased in without any sudden surges or disruptions in traditional taxing procedures.

This is the way it will work. The mortgage interest and property tax deductibility provisions would allow deductions of 25 percent in the first year, 50 percent in the second, 75 percent in the third and 100 percent in the fourth year. This would allow the federal government to phase in measures to soften the impact of the loss in federal revenues.

There would be obvious spin-off benefits to the program in addition to allowing more Canadians to afford to purchase homes. It would facilitate and accelerate the sales of the 70,000 homes presently on the Canadian real estate market, and, it would serve to stimulate the house-building industry. Unemployment in Canada's construction industry is presently running at about 20 percent.

The capacity of our house-building industry is about 275,000 units per year, but estimates for housing starts in 1979 are only 215,000. The Tory mortgage interest and property tax deductibility proposal would enable the construction of those additional 60,000 units, creating in the order of 105,000 man years of work in the construction industry.

It has been calculated that the personal income taxes generated by this additional employment would be about 400 million dollars in the first year, enough to offset the cost of the first year of the interest and tax deductibility program.

A front page story in last Wednesday's Toronto Globe and Mail newspaper indicated that the widespread public acceptance of the Conservative proposals is causing a great deal of concern in the federal Liberal Caucus.

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

There has been heated debate in the Ontario Legislature about the number of doctors who have opted out of the medicare program. The federal Minister of Health has indicated that Ottawa would reassess its contribution to provincial health plans if the principle of universality were being destroyed.

Figures released by the Provincial Minister of Health in the Legislature show that in some eleven counties or municipalities more than 20 percent of the doctors had opted out of OHIP by the end of last month: Peterborough - 47.2 percent; York - 40.7 percent; Perth - 29.3 percent; Halton - 28.9 percent; Wellington - 28.6 percent; Waterloo - 25.5 percent; Simcoe - 25.2 percent; Metro Toronto - 23.6 percent; Lambton - 21.9 percent; Peel - 21.4 percent; Middlesex - 20.2 percent. He also indicated that some 71 more doctors plan to opt out on the 1st April.

When federal Health Minister Monique Begin said Ottawa would reconsider its support of provincial health plans if accessibility and universality were eroded, she specifically expressed concern about the number of doctors opting out in Ontario.

In the Legislature, the Provincial Minister hinted strongly that improvement in government dealings with them would soothe doctors and discourage them from opting out of the medicare system. He said that doctors have complained that OHIP's administrative procedures are unduly bureaucratic and that some of them feel the schedule of benefits is unfair. Both problems are, he said, being studied.

Subsequently, a Provincial Health Ministry official stated that, according to statistics, departure of doctors from the Ontario Health Insurance Plan has been a slow and steady trend. It began months before doctors were freed from federal wage and profit controls. The controls ended January 1st for most of the Province's physicians, but the acceleration in the number of doctors leaving OHIP began as long ago as last May.

Virtually all the anaesthetists at the Toronto Western Hospital have apparently opted out of OHIP. Asking if the Minister of Health were aware of this fact, Dr. Stuart Smith questioned the Minister as to the government's plans to ensure that people are able to have needed surgery in a public hospital without being forced to pay a surcharge. He also asked if the Minister were prepared to encourage the immediate establishment of capitation medical groups in communities where patients are unable to obtain medical service at the OHIP rate. The capitation system is a payment scheme whereby doctors are paid a fixed annual amount per patient enrolled in their practice.

Tax Rebate

On October 27, 1978 I asked the Minister of Industry and Tourism why we didn't make more use of the regulation exempting out-of-province tourists from Ontario Retail Sales Tax. Today, the Ontario Government announced the publication of a brochure that would inform all retail merchants of this rebate scheme.

When I made the suggestion last October, it came at a time when the United States had implemented some very major reforms to its customs laws. Specifically, the value of duty free goods Americans are allowed to take back to the U.S. was tripled. This factor, along with tax free purchases and the value of the American dollar here, would have provided quite a boost for retail sales and I thought that we might have taken some action in this regard in time for Christmas shopping last year.

The rebate itself has been in the regulations at least since 1970. The Ontario government has taken no action on it until now. When I pointed this out last October the Minister of Industry and Tourism, according to his response, knew nothing about it. Today's announcement, it appears, is yet another suggestion of our Tourism Committee, for improving the province's tourism industry, that the Ontario government has adopted as its own.

Don't neglect to reapply

Health and Welfare Canada officials in Toronto today urged recipients of the federal government Guaranteed Income Security payments to re-apply for the supplement before the March 31 deadline or face the prospect of having payments discontinued.

According to W. A. Wright Regional Director for Income Security Programs, recipients who do not apply by the deadline time will be faced with payment interruption.

The Guaranteed Income Supplement program requires annual re-application by recipients because of the possible change in income. Ontario presently has 380,445 GIS recipients. Recipients whose income has dropped will receive larger payments while recipients whose income has increased will receive a reduced rate.

According to Wright, there are some 86,000 applications still outstanding. "If everybody acts immediately, there's still time to get the re-applications in and processed so that payment will not be interrupted," he said.

I can muddle around with a metaphor, search for a simile, fool with a phrase, or wait for the very right word to come, by the hour, without expressing any emotion other than benignancy.

But the small, inanimate things that besiege our daily life drive me into a fury that knows no bounds.

It's not the big things. I've mastered them. I can stand behind a mechanic or a plumber and nod knowledgeably with the best of them.

Any damfool knows that the driveshaft is connected to the main blake cylinder or the hot pipe is not connected to the coal pipe, or whatever they're trying to tell you.

It's the little things, the things you are too ashamed to get an expert for, but haven't a clue how to do yourself, that make me break things, take the name of the Lord in vain, accuse my wife and children of dreadful things, and generally act like an idiot.

Who's going to call up a typewriter repairman, for example, to change the ribbon on his typewriter? Or a carpenter to come and screw a couple of tiny nuts into a doorknob that keeps falling off?

My wife has just been through one of my experiences with the little things, and after ten minutes of it, she ran into another room, white and trembling, and locked the door.

She bought me a typewriter ribbon at Christmas. We don't usually buy presents for each other, the last few years. The children and grandboys take us for such a ride that we've declared a moratorium. But her love for me was too deep. She bought me a typewriter ribbon. Mainly because you could only read the type of the old ribbon with a magnifying glass. It made an impression on the paper but you couldn't see it. It was more like Braille than typing. But I was hanged if I was going to spend a weekend changing the ribbon, so I just went on.

Finally, she typed out some addresses, broke the ribbon, and practically ruined the whole blasted machine, as I pointed out in a few ill-chosen words.

Well, I had to get this column written (and it'll be late, you can depend on it.)

So I tore into the bloody thing. Half an hour later, the air was blue, I was black to the waist with ink, and the fool thing was typing in red.

"Couldn't you just sort of switch the spools around and turn it upside down, or something?" she queried in a very small voice.

"Shut up, you dummy!" or words to that effect. "Aaargh!"

Anyway, there you are. It's not one of my few admirable qualities. I admit it. But I'm stuck with it. And the people who are stuck with me are also stuck with it.

I can start screwing a couple of one-eighth-inch screws into a doorknob, and wind up with somebody locked in the bathroom for a week. I can put an average, standard stapler on the blink in 45 seconds, with staples all over the room, and wire irreparably bound around the thing you punch.

It's all rather hard to understand. I am not particularly inept or stupid. Nor am

I particularly clumsy. I was a pretty fair athlete with bags of coordination. I drive a car reasonably well. I learned to fly aircraft with thousands of parts and thousands of horsepower. Yet I go berserk when confronted by a typewriter ribbon.

On second thought, maybe I can understand it. I get it from my dad. He was a gentle man, and yet I've seen him fly into a fury over nothing. First car he ever had, back in the twenties. I didn't see it, but I've heard the story. The dealer showed him how to operate it, drove around the block a couple of times, picked up his down payment and turned my dad loose.

He in turn, picked up my mother, drove her around the block a couple of times, headed for home, and drove right through the back of the barn that was to serve as a garage. And he blamed my mother!

Another time, I saw him cut his finger, when the knife slipped as he was carving a roast. He didn't say a word. Just flung some blood on the tablecloth, turned purple, sawed the edge of the carving knife on the side of the plate, and ruined both.

So it ain't my fault. It's the genes.

Huskies lose three straight, then rally to stay alive against Lakefield

A team from Pefferlaw scored a total of 15 goals and outplayed their opponents through three games to win the championship of the Bus Cramp Memorial Hockey Bantam Tournament in Minden Saturday. Haliburton made it to the consolation round, and faced Millbrook, above, but lost the game 5-2. Minden lost 8-0 in the consolation semi final, also against Millbrook. Seven teams turned out for the tournament, the last of the season at the Minden arena, but fan support was scarce, and several of the teams played lackluster games.

The end of the season was looming large for the Haliburton Huskies last week after three straight losses to the Lakefield Chiefs put them behind 3-0 in best of seven Group 5 finals. But Sunday night, before a packed and noisy arena crammed with a large contingent of Lakefield fans, the Huskies came on strongly to win a reprieve and force a fifth game in Lakefield Wednesday.

The team's fortunes were sagging last week after an opening game loss in Lakefield in which the Huskies were badly outplayed, and a second loss at home last Wednesday night.

Friday, the series switched back to Lakefield, and once again the Huskies were unable to come up with a consistent offence. It was catch-up hockey all the way for the Huskies, who slipped behind early in the first period and were never really in contention for the rest of the game.

Lakefield opened the scoring by capitalizing on a penalty to Steve Farnsworth that left the Huskies a man short. The goal came at 5:33 of the opening period, 33 seconds after Farnsworth left the ice.

With the teams back at full strength, Lakefield made it 2-0 on a three-man passing play to beat Craig Wood at 10:29.

The Huskies got into the game 13 seconds later when Larry Stinson teamed up with Chris Hodgson and Andy Salvatori to put one by the Chiefs' goaltender, Bill Corner.

The goal seemed to spark the Huskies, who continued to press the play, and found the mark for the second time at 12:34. This time it was Joe Roberts teaming up with Randy Barras and Steve Farnsworth for the score.

Lakefield lost little time in moving ahead again, however, and the Huskies were never really close again.

The goal that put Lakefield back out in front came at 15:20 on a two-man passing play, and though they continued to press, there was no more scoring on the period.

Both teams were short two men for the opening seconds of the second period, as double roughing penalties assessed in the last minute of the first period carried over.

Steve Davies returned to the ice first, giving the Huskies the man advantage for a little over 30 seconds, but it was Lakefield who found the mark, scoring a shorthanded goal at 54 seconds.

With the teams back at even strength, Dave Brown scored on a break-away at 1:24 to move the Huskies back to within one goal of a tie, but Lakefield lost little time in stretching their lead back to two. The fifth goal came at 4:45, and at 12:43, the Chiefs beat Wood again to make it 6-3 going into the third.

A breakaway at 7:29 moved Lakefield into a four goal lead, but the Huskies narrowed it to 7-4 on a Randy Barras to Joe Roberts passing play.

Last goal of the game came at 16:57 when Lakefield connected to make the final score 8-4.

Sunday, the fans poured into the Dysart arena to cheer the Huskies in what could have been the final game of the season. But with the home ice advantage, and some well executed passing plays, the Huskies finally proved that their regular season wins against Lakefield had been more than luck.

Although Lakefield proved to be strong opponents, and the Huskies' defense was often less than effective, accurate shooting and well-timed passing gave the Huskies a convincing win.

The teams came out fast, and both goalies had to be sharp as hard shots were peppered at them from inside the blue lines. A tripping penalty at 4:38 sent Ed

Roberts to the box, and brought out the Chiefs threatening power play. It was Tim Bain, however, who put the first number on the scoreboard, at 6:05 from Tim Oram for the first of three shorthanded goals the Huskies scored.

Lakefield came back to tie things up at 7:04, but it was the Huskies who dominated play for the rest of the period.

A tripping call against Lakefield at 9:49 brought out the Huskies' power play but the home team was unable to get a shot on goal.

At 13:29 Joe Roberts was robbed on a shot from the slot, but he recovered the rebound and passed it over to Tim Bain for the 2-1 goal ahead.

For the next few minutes, Haliburton continued to press the play into the Lakefield end until four-minute roughing penalties to both sides, and a two-minute elbowing call against Oram put Haliburton two men short to Lakefield's one. The Chiefs' power play was ineffective, though, and the score remained unchanged.

With the teams back at five aside, Barry Shaw combined with Joe Roberts to make it 3-1 Haliburton at the 18:02 mark.

Close quarter action around the Lakefield net resulted in some rough play for the next seconds of the match, but the referees seemed content to let both sides relieve the pressure if the offenses were anything less than blatant.

At 18:37, Salvatori picked up a tripping call that left the Huskies shorthanded, in the opening moments of the second period, but Lakefield was unable to capitalize on the situation.

In the opening minutes of the period, the Huskies seemed to lose some of the teamwork that had put them out in front in the first period. Defensive mistakes in particular continually left Chiefs shooters open, as the Huskies played the man rather than the puck.

Lakefield wasn't long in taking advantage of the weakness, and put one in the net to make it 3-2 at 2:18 of the second.

The goal seemed to spark the Chiefs, who came on with a flurry of shots that called for some neat stops by Huskies' Craig Wood.

At 4:14, Tim Bain found himself in the penalty box after a classic demonstration how to invoke a holding call.

The breaks continued to go the Huskies' way however, and Joe Roberts, who played a strong game, teamed up with Larry Stinson for a shorthanded goal that took some of the wind out of the Chiefs' sails at 4:50.

With Huskies fans by now sensing the team had a chance to stay alive, "Go, Huskies, Go" chants boomed through the arena and seemed to spur the local players on.

A cross checking offense gave the man advantage to the Huskies, who responded with a goal at the seven minute mark. Teaming up were Dave Brown from Joe Roberts and Chris Hodgson.

At 9:36, it was Brown once again finding the mark, assisted by Roberts and Bain.

The four goal lead made it look like a Haliburton runaway, but Lakefield proved they were far from out with a goal at 13:19 to make it 6-3.

With a minute and a half left in the period, good forechecking by the Huskies produced a free puck for Dwight Sisson, who had to reach for it but found the top corner of the net to make it 7-3 at 18:49. Assist on the goal went to Chris Hodgson.

Crosschecking and interference calls against Lakefield with just eight seconds left in the period gave the

Along the Trails by Roy Bates

About a month ago, I was stopped on the street in Haliburton and asked whether I could suggest someone who would be willing to take out a group of snowmobilers booked into a lodge at Drag Lake for the second weekend in March. A few evenings ago, I received a phone call from the guide on that occasion who gave a glowing report on the several rides taken and of the enthusiasm of the visitors to come back and do it again.

We are asked occasionally to provide this trail guide service but, as yet, there has been no real effort to organize such a service and to make it available to all tourist establishments. We do need one, and we need to have it in place as soon as possible.

It should be, I think, a co-operative effort between the local snowmobile club and the tourist operators, for certainly the benefits can be mutual.

For the club, a more harmonious relationship with visiting trail users will lead to a greater appreciation of the club's efforts and a lengthening membership roster. For the tourist operator, a more satisfied clientele will lead to filled rooms in future seasons. For the visitor, the added courtesy will assure greater enjoyment of his holiday on the best-groomed and most scenic routes - trails which he might well have missed if left to his own devices. Let's make him want to come back.

Trails for Tomorrow

When we compare the

Wednesday bowling

Wes Stata bowled the high triple for the day with a 730 last Wednesday in afternoon bowling action.

Other high triples were Fran Woods, 600; Norma Parish, 601; and Pearl Foster, 684.

Single games over 200 were Fred Brittain, 204; Flo Henderson, 224; Wes Stata, 242, 299; Muriel Peters, 204; Nancy Stinson, 234; Ruth Sawyer, 201; Ev Stata, 202; Harry Henderson, 205; Fran Woods, 212, 236; Shirley Hamilton, 220; Norma Parish 205, 210; Mary Parozanin, 231; Phyllis MacDuff, 245; Ethel Gainforth, 245; Wendy Kirkpatrick, 206; Pearl Foster, 227, 240, 217; Darlene Fearney, 224, 238 and Susan Titus, 237.

Team standings are Hot Rods, 26; Slow Pokes, 25; Left Overs, 23, All Strikes, 20, Happy Gang, 18 and Odd Balls, 14.

Thursday ladies bowling

Dorothy Ann Robinson bowled games of 263, 249 and 215 to come up with a high triple of 727 last Thursday in ladies bowling action.

Two other bowlers, Flo Henderson and Debbie Allin, also came up with triples over 700.

Flo Henderson had a 290 and a 241 on the way to a 715 triple, while Debbie Allin rolled 269, 224 and 210 for a 703 triple.

Other high triples were Eva Piper, 661 - 247, 216; Lil Gorvett, 630 - 256, 239; and Joan Hatoski, 626 - 299.

Others with singles over 200 were Donna McDermott, 225, 201; Jean Carr, 216, 204; Joyce Penick, 229; and Kay Barry, 223.

Standings as of last week were: Lil's Teddy Bears, 93; Iris's Super Sports, 81; Joan's All Stars, 67; Susan's Sizzlers, 66; Kay's Tigers, 49; and Eva's Terrors, 49.

snowmobiling opportunities of today with the opportunities of ten years ago, we have to agree that we've come a long, long way. There were virtually no trails in those early days, other than narrow, brushy tracks leading from lake to lake, while today we have a network in this province estimated at more than three thousand miles.

And we are counting only those trails groomed and marked and located off roads and water. But we must ask ourselves, "Are we providing the kinds of riding opportunities that the snowmobilers of Ontario actually want?"

While the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association locally, and its counterparts in other regions, have gone to great lengths to extend and improve dry-land trails, it is notable that lakes and roads are still being extensively used. No trail yet developed has been able to match the exhilaration of a fast run across a frozen lake surface and probably no trail ever will. The best we can hope to do is provide in the trail system all of the other important components of a truly satisfying snowmobiling experience. We need to be fully conscious of what those components are as we go into the planning of future trail development. The trails of tomorrow must be built around the needs and desires of the snowmobilers who will use them.

Why not drop a line to your snowmobile club - or to me if you wish - outlining briefly the features that you feel are important in a snowmobile trail? Your club is constantly reviewing its trail policy. Your opinions and suggestions can keep us on the right track.

Curling Club News

In last week's action at our club, Phyl Woodcock and her rink of Sheila Eldon, Barb Bolin, and Sandra Casey defeated Emily LaRue and her rink of Mary Pearsell, Jane Johnston and Elly Casey, to win the Wednesday night ladies league. Sheila Pople and her rink of Arleen Scheffee and Dorothy Baker were the winners in the ladies afternoon schedule.

In the Monday men's league, Dick McLean's rink emerged victorious over Ron Barr's Rink and in the Thursday men's, Dave Bishop won over Joe Iles to win that schedule.

In the mixed league Bob Collier won over Dave Gray in the 7 o'clock and Murray Kuno defeated Roy Scott to win the 9:00 p.m. draw. Bob Collier will now play Murray Kuno to determine the overall winner in the mixed and Joe Iles will play Ron Barr to determine the winner in the bottom half of the schedule.

The club is planning a one-day mixed spiel (two, six-end games) for March 31. Each rink is to have two new curlers. Anyone wishing to enter a team, contact Ann MacNault or Linda Beachli.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

Monday morning we find Miss Catherine Feir, a granddaughter of Berkeley Feir, one of the Happy Gang's honorary presidents and an honorary president of the Haliburton Echo and the Minden Recorder, working for Extendicare in Mrs. Donna Dillon's office. Like most of our youth, she worked as a sales lady since graduating from grade XII at the Haliburton Highland's Secondary School, then got the chance from the Ontario Career Action Program, (OCAP for short) to learn by doing as a helper for Mrs. Dillon, secretary for Extendicare. We residents wish her all the best. Later in the forenoon we found Miss Anne Craig, another OCAP recruit installed as helper to Mrs. Pat Burk, our activity director. Anne is a 1976 graduate of Grade XI, Orangeville High School, has had several jobs since and now works for us. She has our word that we will not be difficult.

Tuesday morning our ladies again undertook to bake a cake and make a batch of oatmeal cookies in preparation for our coming birthday party. These oatmeal cookies are further processed before being eaten, into making cookie sandwiches with date paste between them called date cookies. This bake session was manned by Mrs. Flossie Burk, Mrs. Elizabeth Woodcock, Mrs. Ada Denholm and Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh, supervised by Mrs. Patricia Burk and her new helper Miss Anne Craig.

A new idea about plants has occurred to the "Gang" to give them greater display. There are hanging plants, and climbing plants but we do not hear of running plants; that is, between hanging and climbing, where plants with runners are allowed freedom of the ceilings, to run about supported by vacuum cups that will not mar beautiful ceilings unless left too long in one location. Strawberries have runners and that sort of gave us this idea.

We are very grateful to Miss Patty Burk, daughter of our very energetic Mrs. Pat Burk, our activity director for loaning the Happy Gang her cherished calculator over the coming weekend. It is very probable that no one does arithmetic any more unless we have to. Thank you Patty!

There was a little change in our Wednesday morning Bible study group. When it appeared to be Mrs. Jane Johnston's turn to give the message instead of the group's leader, Mrs. June Devolin. Much credit goes to these two devoted young ladies which ever the order.

Another birthday was celebrated Thursday on behalf of Norman Titus, Louis Ruthven, Mrs. Mabel Stone, Mrs. Sandra Johnston, Mrs. Lola McCall and Leslie Grist. This party was delightfully MC'd and chair leaded by Mrs. Marilyn Stouffer, and our very dependable Mrs. Betty Salvatori was the pianist. It was one of those down to earth parties, not too exciting and not by any means too dull, consisting of many, many, old time favourite popular songs. All too soon the cake came nicely decorated, cut and apportioned by Mrs. Pat Burk. The sample we got was sumptuous in flavour and reputedly baked by our Happy Gang ladies. Another milestone is passed but by no means forgotten by any of the celebrants, or even by the Gang.

On our noon walk we encountered a shattered whiskey bottle on the sidewalk near the Haliburton United Church and our thoughts wandered to "The barefoot boy", a poem we oft recited as children in public school. It seems whiskey has banished it for good. A suitable punishment for such an act might be for the judge to require the culprit to be supervised by a police officer to retrieve every share. On the other hand, it may not be the culprit who did it, but that nearly unconscious customer of the liquor store who after consuming the contents of the bottle, became so exhilarated he or she smashed it on the sidewalk near the church.

It is of interest to the Gang and may be to others in or about Haliburton that Miss Diane Dainard, a native Canadian lady is on the Extendicare staff. Time has changed much in the past hundred years, even to show that these ladies have a charm of their own that will add much to Canada's culture.

Our devotion period Friday morning was conducted by the Rosch team, Pastor Glen, of the Full Gospel Lighthouse and his musically talented wife, Julie. The theme "My heart is overflowing with a good matter" was used to describe and count the many good things in our lives. An extra treat was provided by a Rosch duet "Jesus is a friend of mine" to the accompaniment of Mrs. Julie's accordion. This was very nice. Prior commitments prevented Pastor Rosch from joining us in our after service of tea or coffee and cookies, the date cookies.

In the afternoon were movies: 1. Crown of glass in reference to the magnificent glass dome being intricately structured and added to the Coventry Cathedral now being built to replace the old cathedral which was completely destroyed by the Nazis early in World War II. It is all very stupendous motivated not only by the love and determination of the British people but by a blank cheque as well. 2. The Cry of the Marsh, showing the detrimental effect of the new gadgets of civilization on the ecology as they invade the homes and nests of the wild creatures of the marshes. 3. I wasn't scared, showing a boy and girl trespassing in a restricted area finding an unexploded bomb and innocently activating the fuse and how the boy narrowly missed being blown to bits by the explosion later.

Finally we had a very nice St. Patrick's party Saturday evening with Mrs. Nancy Picard's family but particularly Nancy providing the music on her accordion, Bobby, age 9, piano, Jay, age 12, recorder and piano and Mr. Picard, sitting back with us enjoying it too. Contributions did come from Jack Pollard's voice, Dennis McKee, a guest, and Mary's son, accordion. Jack Gill's voice and harmonica, Mrs. Pat Burk's voice and comment, Mrs. Janice Barnes, piano and Mrs. Mary McKee, a witty trouble shooter. Any time you want a party, ask Nancy and it becomes a superb party.

We have found that the smithereens of the whiskey bottle beside the church has been removed but not to the specifications of the "barefoot boy".

Senior League

Monday morning our physical fitness program had a new angle; we decided to have a game of basketball. We sure used some muscles we haven't used in a long time. In the afternoon we kept up with craft ideas in our craft room. In the evening we found very interesting as the first was entitled "The Bruce Trail", and the second "Embassy of Ireland", quite appropriate for this time of year.

Tuesday morning's Chapel service was led by Don Nicholson from Haliburton United Church, and we were pleased to have Mrs. Cummings from Lutterworth Pines come and play the organ for our service. We thoroughly enjoyed the message and the music. In the afternoon we warmed up our bus and took first little run for 1979. We went over to Norland and across to Kinmount and there we were treated to ice cream cones and then came on home.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Percy Drysdale and Lloyd Coleman came in to keep score and play carpet bowling with some of our men.

Thursday's afternoon tea was served by the ladies from Haliburton Baptist Church. They brought a lovely lunch of tea breads and crackers and cheese. Thank you very much ladies.

At 7 p.m. we had a couple of good Kinsmen fellows come in and call out our bingo numbers for us. That is much appreciated too.

Friday afternoon we held a sing-song in our main lounge. Norma Barron came in to play the piano for us and a good time was had by all.

Friday evening at 7:30, Hyland Crest Auxiliary ladies held a progressive euchre party in the auditorium. They gave out lovely gifts donated by several businesses. Audrey Vick won a cushion that was made by our ladies in the craft room.

There were only about half a dozen residents who came to play cards. Bill Deacon won a prize for having the most lone hands.

We are looking forward to having more bus trips now that the nice weather is here. See you next week!

With the plant craze on, everyone is sporting hanging pots and shelves of plants. Pots can get pretty pricey so here's a few alternatives.

Take your green plastic pot and some brown jute. Using white glue and starting at the bottom, glue the jute circling round and round the pot till you reach the top. Old binder twine works too. Either way you have a nitty gritty look that offers natural tones setting off your greenery.

A coconut hollowed out makes another attractive holder when strung up either by macrame or simply leather thongs (leather boot laces). Drill a hole to give you a start for your saw blade. Cut off the top third. You can pry out and eat the coconut. Be sure to seal it in a coat of varathane because frequent waterings will cause it to crack.

Old wringer tubs make excellent outdoor planters when camouflaged with a coat of flat back paint or matching trim paint.

Don't forget to send in your suggestions and win a prize for the best monthly submission.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

With all schools closed for the March break, the sound of voices is everywhere, and one must be careful driving as the young folk are out on the roads playing road hockey, as well as other games. Just think when you read this, it will be the first day of spring. Winter is behind us, the snow that is left has that dirty colour, all signs point to the nice time when things start growing. Even the air smells good and the birds are singing, so who can complain?

The Norm Lee home was very busy for a few weeks, but now seems empty, for the family have returned to the west, and the house seems to miss all the activity that was there.

The postal rates rise April 1, so either write your letters now, or pick some stamps so your letters won't be lacking postage at the other end. After April 1, letters require 17 cents; birthday, get well cards, etc. need 15 cents.

The grapevine has it that the entertainment for the Haliburton County Fair will be "Dallas Harnes with East Wind". I am told they are really good; so I hope all will enjoy them.

Mrs. Phyllis Miller, Mrs. Elva Deacon and Mrs. Beatrice Taylor attended the Presbytery U.C.W. meeting in Lindsay last week and enjoyed the fellowship with other U.C.W. members.

Don't forget that this Wednesday, March 21 is the card party at St. Paul's Parish Hall, with proceeds for the foster child.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyne Cox of Ajax spent the weekend in Minden.

A large group of supporters went with the Midget "A" team to Trout Creek on Sunday, only to see them lose their second game of this series. This happened in the other series, so let us hope they can do the same again.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Howe and family attended the Sportsman Show in Toronto this week.

Another date to remember is the L.O.B.A. card party on Monday, March 26.

The winners at the Hyland Crest euchre party last Friday evening were, Audrey Vic, Della Griffin, and May Wright. Lone hand winners were Nettie Wilson and Bill Deacon. Everyone had a great time and there was a good turnout.

Garry Williams and family of Stouffville spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Bunker.

Mrs. Arnie Coulter spent the weekend with Ray and Adele Rivers at Downsview.

Winners at the mini card party last week were: cribbage, Verna McDonald, Isabel Harrison; bridge, Dianne Warrens; euchre, lone hand - Shirley Elcome, Bill Elcome and Alice Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dudman of Scarborough spent the weekend with Mrs. Shirley Hewitt.

The Minden Figure Skating Club are presenting their grand finale at the arena on Sunday, April 1. Don't miss it for it sounds exciting.

The Glenn Sears of West Hill spent Sunday with the Milt Sears.

There is a hockey dance coming up on April 7, so keep that date in mind.

Mrs. Annie Kernohan is spending this week in Willowdale with the Tom Parrish family.

If there comes a little thaw, still the air is chill and raw; Here and there a patch of snow, dirtier than the ground below; Dribbles down a marshy flood, ankle-deep you stick in mud; In the meadows while you sing "This is Spring". - C.P. Cranch.

Mary Ellen Stephens of Indianapolis, Indiana is spending a few weeks with her mother, Doreen James.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell are in Toronto this week.

Mary Snell, Jody Campbell and several others headed for California for a week's holiday.

All council members were present at the March meeting held in the municipal office in Norland at 7:15 p.m. on Tuesday, March 6. By-Law #5-79 being a by-law repealing By-Law #2-79 was read a first time. This by-law appoints a new community centres board for 1979 consisting of Dave Graham, Mike Riordon, Jean Boyce, Beverly Graham, Lynda Easton, Brenda Greer, Barbara Maund, David Lee, Stuart Morton and John Eason.

A bulletin board to advertise local activities and to cost not more than $100.00 is to be procured and installed inside the north window of the township office.

The building inspector-by-law enforcement officer's wages are to be set at $70.00 per week effective March 5.

There was considerable discussion about raising the trailer park licence fees and information re this matter will be obtained for the next meeting. Norland Horticultural Society is to be given a grant of $35.00 for 1979. Application #1-79 for cancellation and reduction of taxes in the amount of $100.61 for Herbert Schmidt was approved.

In the past few weeks rabid foxes have become somewhat of a problem in the Norland area. About a month and a half ago, the Gerald Bartleys were awakened during the night by the whining of their dog who was tied outside. When they discovered a fox attacking the animal Gerry shot the fox and later the dog had to be destroyed. Tests were done on the dead fox and it was found to be rabid. Last week another fox attacked a dog at the Joe Pearce farm, north of Norland but it escaped before it could be killed. On Sunday, March 11 a fox was seen near the post office and then it ran west on highway 503. It is believed that it was the same one that was spied and shot in Norland Public School yard on Monday, March 12 only a few minutes after the students went into the school following noon recess. This carcass was also removed by the Department of Health to be checked for rabies. Rabid animals do not act in their usual manner and will often attack a dog or a human, so do be on the lookout for these menacing animals and stay clear of them.

In the evening there will be a tiny tots fashion show, local children's dance group and a floor show of ethnic dancing. Plan now to attend some or all of these activities and visit those in other districts. Brochures with all of the events listed will be available to the public in April.

Fenelon Falls Secondary School entertained friends and family at their successful Cabaret Night on Wednesday March 14. Rose Weerdenburg and Dale Davey were two of the large number of young people who took part in the program. On Thursday, March 15, Cobocok Lions enjoyed their guest speaker, Lion Ray Jackson from the Oak Ridges Lions Club. Lion Ray, who has been blind for five years, told the men about some of the problems that he has had to overcome because of his handicap but that he can still participate and does in many activities. He is an active Lion member and an inspiration to all. Members of the Oshawa Lions Club were also present at this meeting.

Some of our local people are getting away from it all during the winter school break. Gerry and Joyce Bartley and family, Theodore, Pat, Vincent and Trent Watson, and Doris and Earl Bartley, their daughter Ann-

Guild of Fine Arts News

by Carole McLean

- Intended for last week -

"Made in Canada" has for some years become the preferred label for the wary shopper in search of quality, uniqueness and a way of boosting our own economy. Recently, the phrase "Made in Haliburton", has become as popular in our own area.

When choosing a gift, whether it be wedding, shower, house warming, birthday or perhaps just a way of saying thank you, more and more people are looking towards our local crafts people to fill their needs; looking for that certain article in which they can express their warmest feelings. It has come to mean so much more to the giver as well as the recipient to see the tag "Made in Haliburton" rather than "Made in Japan" stamped on the bottom.

In order to support our local artisans the Guild of Fine Arts have published a brochure listing the crafts people and the locations where their particular craft can be obtained, and these are available at the School of Fine Arts, Lakeview Centre.

So the next time that special occasion arises and your looking for something unique, think "Made in Haliburton".

Visual and Performing Arts Group

With the new "Guild Station Gallery" nearing completion and its grand opening scheduled for after the Summer Exhibition and Sale, the group is not allowing any grass to grow under their feet; they have already booked shows for 1979-80. There will be 10 shows obtained through the Ontario Craft Council and they will travel the county, to Kinnmount, Cardiff, Dorset, Minden and Wilberforce, returning then to the "Gallery" for a final showing before being forwarded to the next Ontario Crafts Council location.

Guild History - "Local Involvement"

During the summer courses of 1968, the Haliburton School of Fine Arts ran a course entitled "Introduction to the Arts, for children (6-14)" conducted by Alice Rycroft. This course was made possible by the generosity of Dr. Harris Gray of Toronto who volunteered to make up a deficit if it occurred. However, registration exceeded expectations and five scholarships were offered to talented students from Minden schools and five to students from Haliburton. All were selected by Public School Inspector Nelson Ward. At the conclusion of the courses an exhibit of children's art was held and the unused painting supplies donated to the county schools. Over the years this program of art scholarships in the educational system has become one of the most valuable projects of the Haliburton School of Fine Arts.

That first summer and subsequently, the Haliburton School of Fine Arts has utilized the facilities, classroom, workshops and cafeteria of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, a modern campus overlooking the calm waters of Head Lake and the Village of Haliburton. This happy arrangement was made possible by the fullest co-operation of the Haliburton County Board of Education and Secondary School Principal, Haliburton born J. Douglas Hodgson, who in 1969 became Director of Education for the county.

Fall curriculum of the Haliburton School of Fine Arts was held at Ken Mars Lodge in lower Kashagawigamog and featured Cornelius Landman's photography, Karl Hanneke's instruction in linocut and blockprinting and John M. Ingles in landscape painting. In their involvement at local levels, Pat Campbell began a ceramic class at the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home at Minden where other crafts were taught by Ruth Schmitt and other volunteers. Principal Douglas Hodgson held a series of discussions with the School of Fine Arts as the organization sought new ways and means to expose the young people to the arts and crafts during the school day and in extra curricular activities. Public School Inspector, Nelson Ward endorsed Alice Rycroft's philosophy of teaching art to children and indicated he would welcome evening lectures which all his teachers and principals might attend.

This in its second year of operation the Haliburton School of Fine Arts was exerting influence at all levels of education in Haliburton County and reaching out to the community at large.

Choral Society
The Guild Choral Society will begin a new season with the first rehearsal Tuesday, March 27 at Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School. New members are most welcome. Come and bring a friend.

Hi, folks. Here we are in the winter break. The sun is shining and the snow is going away little streams running all along the roads; real spring weather.

Mrs. Judy Lee and her two little girls, Tina and Kendra, left Irondale last Wednesday and flew back to Calgary to live.

Wednesday evening there were 16 members attending the Ladies Auxiliary meeting at the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 441.

Mrs. Pam Swinson is the only one I have heard from who won $10.00 in Wintario Thursday night.

The community were sorry to hear Mrs. Wally Scott (Bill's mother) was taken to Haliburton Red Cross Hospital by ambulance on Friday.

There were no big winners at bingo, Friday night. This week will see 55 numbers called for $150.00 jackpot.

Sylvia and Judy Garrick of Irondale went to Toronto on Friday and will be visiting with relatives for a week.

Congratulations to the proud new parents, Marlene and Doug Monro, a daughter on Friday March 16, and Crystal Ann and Ray Sedgwick, a boy on Saturday March 17.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch 441, had a real good crowd for the St. Patrick's dance on Saturday night. A lot of the old crowd from a few years ago were there. We had folks from Bobcaygeon, Wilberforce, Erie, Norland, Coboconk, Burnt River, Minden, Lindsay, Toronto and Haliburton, and probably other places we didn't hear about.

Believe it or not, but Maurice Angers of Coboconk won the $23.00 50-50 draw at the Legion, Saturday. That is two in a row for the same man.

And I won the $20.00 hockey pool. They say if you keep trying, you're bound to win sometime. Well, I sure was surprised anyhow.

Our hockey team is really on a losing streak. They played Norland Thursday night, and lost 9 - 3.

Mr. Ralph Allan of Downsview visited with his mother Kay and Gerard for the weekend. Kay went with him Sunday as far as Oshawa to spend a week with her son Paul and family.

Ron and Millie Graham came up from Erie for the weekend and Millie is staying up with her father, Walter Duftv, for the week.

Miss Wendy Myles of Toronto is visiting this week with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Myles, Alice and Brian. Miss Jackie Brown was visiting with the Myles family a few days last week.

The St. Patrick's dance and buffet supper at Galloway Hall, Saturday night was a booming success.

Some of the side roads are quite muddy. The crows and robins are about and the pussywillows are out in full force. Bye for now, see you next week. Drive carefully and enjoy the good weather.

Visitors over the weekend with Mrs. Mary O'Toole, John and Earl Askey were Gord, Madeline and Donna Brooks, and Amanda Cappell all of Toronto.

Congratulations to newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Richmond who were married last week, Saturday, March 10. They will be residing in Lindsay.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Mary Black who went to hospital on Thursday. Mrs. Black is in intensive care at Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay and we trust she is soon well. Despite her illness, and age of almost 87 years, son Jim says she took along an afghan to work on - doctors permitting.

Mr. Edgar Filday and Robbie accompanied by Betty Hodgson of Haliburton left for a two week holiday in sunny Florida this week. They will meet Murray Robertson there who has been there for some time. Then they will all return and Murray will be back opening up his Pine Point cottages for summer and spring visitors.

Tory Hill News

Having a week's winter vacation with his family was Mr. Brady Major of Hamilton.

Mr. Dwight Boyd of Warkworth dropped in for a day last week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Boyd.

Visiting with her family a couple of days was Miss Helen Bates of Toronto. Kathleen returned to the city for a few days visit.

I think the article called "Recycle It" is very interesting. Remember that old saying, "You're never too old to learn", applies to us all, so send them in guys and gals.

Mrs. David Foster, "nee Hart" and Andrea of Barrie spent the weekend at the apartment with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Finlay who were up from Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Dunford of Newmarket, Misses Bonnie and Barbara Dunford of Toronto spent the weekend enjoying some skiing and visiting with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dunford.

Miss Lyn Finlay visited with her family in the village for the weekend.

It is now the time for the mid-winter school break and the children will be out playing a lot and chasing their favourite pets, playing ball, etc. So we ask you to be cautious when driving on the highways and through the towns as sometimes the children don't realize the danger involved. "Just a concerned grandma".

Quite a number of local people attended the ice follies in Peterborough recently. Among those were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Anderson and Michelle and Mr. and Mrs. John Finlay.

Mrs. Violet Cowan of Don-ald visited a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Bev Billings and family.

It is always nice to be able to write news that has been a happy event. Well, that's what took place last Saturday when the Tory Hill ski-doo rally came off. It was a huge success, with lots of fun on the trails then returning to a delicious home-cooked meal which 68 hungry appetites sat down to beef, pork, chicken, salads, home baked pies, etc. Then on into an evening of dancing with one of our own former local boys, Doug McCrea, doing just a superb job as disc jockey. Another highlight of the evening was a good old square dance at midnight.

Thanks is extended to everyone who helped in any way and special thanks to Harvey and Irene Sommer-ville.

So people, think about next year and where you can go for $5.00 and have such a good time. Profits will be used for the Monmouth Community Centre in Tory Hill.

Mrs. Eric Finlay will be spending school break in Hawaii; have a good time Lesley.

The 4 and 1 hunt club spent the weekend at their camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Roll Pickford of Ajax spent the weekend with Judy's dad, Mr. Gordon Bryan.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. George Holland was not hurt in her recent car accident.

Mrs. Shirley Stamp and Mrs. Elsie Sibley attended an educational seminar in Huntsville representing the IWA of the sub local 2-1000 Wilberforce Veneer, Wilberforce, Ontario.

It's once again nearing the time of year when some of us are bush bound with brace and bit, spikes, nails, etc. to make maple syrup. Also watch in the local newspapers for coming events of pancake suppers and such.

Mr. and Mrs. D. McElwain of Lindsay visited with relatives in the village last weekend.

Mrs. M. McMahon, Mrs. P. Hubbard, Mrs. M. Cully and Marilyn attended the recent Ice Follies in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Carberry of Oakville were at their farm house for a couple of days.

Home for a visit with his family was Mr. Ken Bates of Toronto.

Mrs. Charles Billings was a business visitor in Toronto on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cully were Sunday guests with his mom and family.

Spending the weekend at the Uncle Tom Cabin was Mr. Ross Limerick and friends from Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Brooking of Bowmanville were visiting with Mrs. V. Brooking recently.

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

Intended for last week -

Monmouth Cup day held on the weekend of March 3 saw visiting teams from Haliburton competing with the home league in minor hockey. Some very good games took place with Wilberforce scoring some great victories. Good support from the parents made the day a complete success as they boosted morale with their attendance and were generous with their help in serving refreshments.

A dance in the evening at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre was well attended. Enjoyable music was provided by a disc jockey - "Sound Sensations". The one team not taking part in this event was the midgets who travelled to Minden for their play-off game.

March 24 and 25 marks the upcoming trip to Toronto where the teams will match their skills with players from Scarborough.

The Legion euchre card parties are in full swing. Every Friday night at eight o'clock sharp the games begin. The games are well attended and refreshments are served at the conclusion of the evening.

March 23 and 24 will see participation in the second annual Silver Spring's mixed bonspiel.

This is the time of year that the authorities worry about deer being pursued by dogs. What about the exuberance of several pets who terrorize pedestrians? Many people are frightened by the sudden appearance of four or five dogs who may be perfectly harmless singly but develop a frightening aspect when together.

One such case was that of a teacher conducting her kindergarten and grade one pupils along the highway (no sidewalks) to the library. Usually under good control, the children became hysterical when a pack of high-spirited dogs rushed up to them. The children cried with fear and made it difficult to continue their trip. This is a problem to be studied by the council.

Members of the Mutual Aid Association from all parts of the county were entertained by the Monmouth Volunteer Firemen on March 13. On hand was a member of the Fire Marshall's office in Toronto to give a comprehensive talk on the investigation of fires to discover the origin of the blaze. This was illustrated with the help of films.

A beef barbecue prepared and served by master chef, Jim Deterling, and his helpers proved a satisfying end to the evening.

On the third of March, leaders of the Girl Guides and the Brownies along with fifteen of their girls went by chartered bus to Lindsay to take part in an Arts Training course. This turned out to be a lively affair with about 500 girls present at the sessions in dance, crafts and singing.

Work is beginning on the new liquor store which will be built on the corner of Flemings Rd. and Holmes Drive. Many years ago this was part of a large tract of land under farm cultivation by the late John Holmes. In the twenties it was used as a football field and many rousing games were played against teams from Tory Hill and Highland Grove. Other times it provided a shooting range for local marksmen. Winner of the match was awarded a live turkey for his skill.

The new L.C.B.O. store is expected to open some time in June and will include a liquor and beer outlet and a returnable bottle depot. The present store is rented from the Monmouth Fire Department.

Monmouth Library Committee held their first meeting of the year with all members present. Bessie Croft, librarian and Winnie Schofield, assistant, also attended.

Winter problems were discussed. Lack of sufficient insulation in the roof has resulted in water damage to the rugs and to the basement ceiling. An electrical problem has caused frequent heat failures and it is thought that the septic tank should be pumped. On the bright side, the snow removal has been very good this winter. Records for the year 1978 report that in the 11 county libraries, Monmouth continues to place third in circulation with over 10,000 books dispersed.

Budget for the year was drawn up and noted by secretary Olive Atkinson to be presented to council. Mary Barker was welcomed as a new member of the committee.

Action taking place next weekend includes a mixed bonspiel by members of Branch 624 Legion.

The Monmouth Figure Skating Club with 60 members taking part will present a carnival "A Little Bit of Everything" on Friday at seven o'clock. Their popular teacher Margaret Powell will be in charge and they have a good program lined up with three guest speakers. It is expected that there will be plenty of time for free skating at the conclusion of the carnival so bring your skates along and join in the fun. March 23, 7-9. On March 24, our minor hockey teams will be bussed to Toronto for an exciting time of competition.

During the winter break period on Thursday afternoon March 22, films will be shown for the children at the library from 2 to 3 p.m.

Dorset News

by Phyllis Briscoe

Intended for last week -

"A sharp tongue is the only tool that grows keener with constant use."

A busload of the Dorset Senior group as well as some not so senior travelled to Bracebridge on Thursday last and attended the musical "Fiddler on the Roof". Everyone enjoyed the excellent performance that was really of Professional Caliber. Thanks to Frank and Jeanette Large for making all the arrangements for such a delightful evening.

We would like to congratulate one of our local girls who attends Huntsville High School on being chosen Snow Queen. Kathy Lewis, daughter of Gareth and Priscilla Lewis who live on Long Lake, was chosen queen for the 10th grade and then on Friday, the day they held their carnival she was chosen the Snow Queen for the Huntsville High School. Once again, congratulations, Kathy.

We are sorry to report the death of Mrs. Grace Falconer, who passed away in hospital in England on March 20 in her 83rd year. Mrs. Falconer was Sheila Tappin's mother and we extend the sympathy of the community to Sheila, Graham and their family.

It is so pleasant to see the snowbanks shrinking. In the early winter we always feel that it gives a feeling of security when the banks build up along the roadsides but by this time we are happy to see them go. I'm sure everyone is enjoying the milder weather and sunshine that we have been experiencing.

Get well wishes are extended to Mrs. Isobel Avery who is a patient in Huntsville Hospital.

"A husband is a man who after emptying an ashtray, manages to look as if he's just finished cleaning the whole house."

A group of Ranger girls had a fun weekend at Doe Lake. There were girls from Midland and Huntsville as well as those from Dorset, about 18 in all. Their time was spent snowshoeing and in other outdoor activities and they report an enjoyable outing.

We have a new business starting up in the village. Glenda's Beauty Shop has opened up over Clayton's store and is now open for business. Best wishes for success in your venture, Glenda.

Congratulations to Mrs. Annie Anderson who celebrated a birthday on March 12th. A group of friends dropped in and a birthday cake and a cup of tea was enjoyed by all.

The Georgian College stretch sewing class, conducted by Barbara Ataman, has just finished after five sessions. It was enjoyed by a group of ladies who are now busy creating colorful spring wardrobes for themselves and their families.

During the March break a number of local families have taken off for areas where the climate is more compatible to enjoying life and they can do and see things that aren't possible at home. For those who don't get away it means mom will be kept busy entertaining the youngsters and keeping them out of mischief.

Isn't it ever going to go away? It seems as though we have to have some flurries each day and some days it is quite blustery, but I guess that is typical March weather. Cheer up, folks, it can't last much longer.

We welcome home Irene and Jack Clayton who have been on a vacation in Florida for several weeks, enjoying the sunshine.

I see the fish huts are coming off the ice. I guess that means winter is over.

Fitness.
It gives much more than it takes.

Carnarvon News

by Yvonne Penney

Intended for last week -

Wedding bells were ringing this past weekend. Mabel Kerr and Bill Clendenning were married on Saturday and are off on a honeymoon cruise. Congratulations.

The Midget team from Minden have shown their ability to play hockey as they won their best three out of five game series against Tamworth in the quarter-finals and now go on to play Trout Creek in the semi-finals. They won their final game on Sunday at home with a score of three to one. The Pee Wee A's were not as fortunate as they lost their final game when they travelled to Tamworth on Sunday. However, there has to be a losing team in every series, and good sportsmanship is most important.

The spring-like weather of last week has deserted us and this past weekend we saw a little snow and much cooler temperatures. The snowmobilers and skiers are happy but personally, I'm looking forward to spring.

The 1st Carnarvon Cubs and Scouts are meeting Tuesday nights in the Christian Education Building of the United Church here. Are there any more young boys in the Carnarvon area who are interested?

Nice to see Elsie Bursley back from vacation in the south. Joan and Ron Fennell are due back from a week in Jamaica as well.

Many of the people in this community are concerned over the problems in the Stanhope Fire Dept. as these are the men who would be called here in the event of a fire, even though some of us live on the line between Minden and Stanhope Townships. I imagine these willing volunteer firemen are feeling very frustrated over all the recent controversy.

March is Red Cross month. What better time to express your commitment to the rest of the community than by making your contribution through your local Red Cross branch?

Carnarvon U.C.W. held their monthly meeting last Wednesday and we were treated to an excellent film entitled "I'll Find A Way". This film concerns a young girl afflicted with spina bifida and showed us how she found a way to cope with her handicap. It certainly makes a person appreciative of healthy children.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the family of the late Elmer Russell.

A bad accident on Hwy. 35 at Carnarvon on Saturday evening involving a car and a Trentway bus, took the lives of three young Toronto men in the car and injured 13 of the 30 people in the bus. The bus, from Port Hope, was returning hockey players and fans from a hockey tournament in Huntsville. Our Stanhope firemen were first on the scene of the accident, assisting the Ontario Provincial Police and ambulance drivers and remained on the scene for some hours after, as traffic was re-routed until the highway was cleared of the damaged vehicles. I

Huskies rally for win

Huskies a two-man advantage for the opening two minutes of the third, but they were unable to capitalize on the calls.

Back at full strength, Lakefield put the pressure on Craig Wood who managed to keep closing the door, until a weak attempt to clear the puck out by Barry Shaw gave the Chiefs the puck at 5:37. The shot from the point that followed was deflected in for the score.

Fired up, Lakefield put on a rush at 6:11, with one man eluding both Haliburton defencemen to slide the puck into the net and cut the margin to 7 - 5 for the Huskies.

Lakefield fans were convinced their team could overcome the deficit, but Haliburton responded immediately in an attempt to quell the Chiefs' fire, with Joe Roberts putting one in at 6:27 from Dave Brown to make it 8 - 5.

At 8:16, Lakefield shot from outside the blue line and found the bottom corner to narrow the gap to two goals once again.

But from then on it was Haliburton all the way, as Steve Davies made it 9 - 6 at 9:45 from Kevin O'Hara.

The teams traded penalties for the rest of the game, with neither side having the advantage for long.

As the minutes ticked away the Chiefs fans began to sense it was hopeless, and the Huskies fans knew the team would be alive for another game at last.

Final goal of the contest came at 17:48 while the Huskies were shorthanded, as Randy Barras broke loose for the clincher.

The series returns to Lakefield Wednesday night with the Huskies needing to win to stay alive.
